

Jim Parsons is a graduate student at Lesley University's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences studying Intercultural Relations. His areas of interest include international education and cultural exchange / preservation efforts. Prior to pursuing his graduate studies, Jim was an English instructor in France for two years and also worked in Washington, D.C. in the legal and government fields. He holds a Bachelors of Arts in History Walsh University and originally hails from Ohio.